A kaleidoscope

is an instrument which creates a design of continually changing forms.
As the pattern is shifted, its components become clearer and yet more varied—isolated, combined, distorted,

they gain a richer definition as the parts revolve once more into their whole.

Like a kaleidoscope,

our collegiate experience at Middlebury has endless patterns.

The components of these patterns are often tangible yet undefinable, concrete in their elusiveness.

Sliding down chapel hill on a tray, long hours alone in the libe,

Crest Room ice cream cones and PR runs, all refract into a manifestation of Middlebury.

Through

the lenses of the 1965 Kaleidoscope, a diversity of unification is exposed as our design of life-changing separately, expanding together.

Our life is of the natural contours of the hills and streams about us, and we conform to this land in our full uniqueness . . . the rocks are our pedestals, the forests our bowers, and the lakes our mirrors.
Middlebury greets us with a kaleidoscope of colors and faces, drawing about us her cloak of September foliage and friendship. . . . a fallen leaf stains its scarlet on the campus and in our memories. . . . a flashing smile lights the way winding through a year of maturing potential.
Remember the guy who came blasting down the Allen? The one with a guitar and a flask for poles, reading Neitzche with one eye and Frost with the other, looking suspended up at the Green Mountains while wrapped in his speed and proficiency. And listening to the band down at the bottom playing “Glad All Over” and him reciting “The Lake Isle of Innisfree” and singing about silver daggers and long chains on and hair that falls down on her breast. Remember him?
Remember the day when you had the wicked cold and your roommate said "You know you're a fool to go skiing, don't you?" And you went because your roommate didn't know where health emanated from anyway . . . and you skiied and skiied and skiied and you wanted to tell those little kids to watch out but you knew they could all ski three times better than you and so you kept on quietly and let the sun pour down on you and when you came home you were very alive and very well and your roommate simply couldn't understand it.
Another Saturday and everyone is standing around talking, talking, talking and you wish so that they would just shut up, or listen to you or really listen to anyone for a change and you begin to think that there couldn't be anything more holy than solitude and you figure you're the only believer and then, walking towards the dorm, she passes and mutters something about really wanting "to take a walk, alone."
Is it these native granite walls that push us away from themselves, the walls that cannot sing or dance or feel; is it these native granite walls that push us into and out of ourselves so that we may carry on where inorganic matter left off?
the immeasurable distance between two eyes wherein sheep have bred and rabbits fed on scarlet leaves poisoned by bounding colors grinding hands examine grinding hands join grinding hands suffocate
the immediate smile is ground in wrinkles wrinkles of a soft hand, the smile, skin smile bark smile of the manyangled midday winter trees colors rejuvenated of the early spring dusk shaped in soaring life . . . red and yellow tail of subtle shadows bellow heads distance beneath shadow they talk of a torn dollar meticulously found on a young pine
Do you remember the many yous of you? The you of bicycles and fall days, the you who really never could believe that there was anything strange about going into the crowded Crest Room and sitting by yourself, the you who wondered so about civil rights, driving privileges, Honor Codes; the you who after four years pauses and wonders just what it was all about anyway, each big and little fight. Was it a cause? Was it a clash? Or something else?
Cramming in the winter, the room got too hot and then too cold and when you turned the radiator back on, it wouldn’t work. So you tried the library, but all the little stalls were taken, so you sat down to listen to laughing and sneezing and sniffing every once in a while, then tried the books again until the bell rang and you had to go back to the hot room and your roommate was talking or going to bed. But, committed as you could be, you stuffed all that material into your consciousness. And maybe, years later, at a cocktail party, Spinoza would rear his ugly head, and there you are, brilliant.
It is anything but agreeable to be haunted by the suspicion that one's intellect is dwindling away.

—Hawthorne
Mais riez riez de moi
Hommes de partout surtout gens ici
Car il y a tant de choses
que je n’ose vous dire Tant de choses que vous
ne me laisseriez pas dire
Ayez pitié de moi

Baudelaire
There was once or twice or maybe a lot more times when this idea hit you. And you really got hung on it. You know, really hung, and you couldn't get it out of your head. So you went and did it—ran the triangle or skied a week straight and missed all your classes, or got really worried about the implications behind the words "honor code," or taken with Dunmore in the Spring and swam out to the middle and floated, or harried the nervous synapse into the morning, or once stopped and chewed brains for the right word to go somewhere. And then there never really was the right word, but a great slew of them, all bouncing around the right one down there in the middle of the lake. So you went to sleep, exhausted but never really sorry.
And when they were young did they ask why snow fell and flowers bloomed, or did the moon replace the sun or only seem to? But that was when they were young. And then, as you might guess, they got older pretty quick and then someone told them to ask about flowers and snow. That was when they were older.
This is where I spent four years; I could say this is where I learned that beauty had words to talk about with, and that when I got done talking about it, I could look at it and find it still fresh, and talk about it some more, because they were two things, the talking and the looking, and sometimes, when the words got beautiful, they got to be one.

The Middlebury Baseball team, in its second year under Coach Wendy Forbes, won the Vermont State Title for the first time in twelve years. Led by the hard hitting of Jeff McKay and Wayne Halliwell and excellent pitching of Newton Baker and Tommy Clark, the Panthers took five of the six state series games.

In the wake of a poor season in 1963, the Panthers started out the 1964 season with dim hopes. Only twenty-six men reported to pre-season practice, an extremely small squad especially in view of the new and much freer substitution rule. Despite the discouraging predictions, Duke Nelson's "ironmen" fought, many of them sixty minutes, to an even season, ending up with a 3-3-1 record.

The Panthers, led by co-captains Dave Giddings and Al Reilly, served notice in the season opener that they should not be taken lightly. Duke's boys shocked one of the strongest Wesleyan teams in years by jumping to an early six point lead. The touchdown, by Junior halfback Fred Beams, was set up by a fifteen yard dash by quarterback Jeff McKay. The extra point was missed, however, and a third quarter score and successful conversion by Wesleyan gave them a narrow one point victory. The following week, the Homecoming crowd saw Middlebury defeat the engineers from W.P.I. The Panther attack, led by the hard running of Fred Beams, ran up a twenty point score, while the stubborn defensive front line of Demong, Love, Giddings, Terry, and Matheke held W.P.I. scoreless.

At Williamstown though, the Panther offense could not get moving. A strong Williams team held Middlebury scoreless, while running up a score of 23 points. It was during this game that Senior tackle Fran Love suffered a broken ankle. Despite this loss the Panthers went on to defeat Bates the next week. With Sophomore Jon Coffin replacing the injured Love the Middlebury Squad came from behind in the second half to surprise the Homecoming Bates rooters and win by a score of 15-12. Scores by Beams and Junior fullback Nick VanNess in the second half provided the margin of victory.

Parents' Weekend at Middlebury saw Jeff McKay pass to Junior end Jeff Demong for an early score against R.P.I. By half time the Panthers had scored three times and considerably dimmed R.P.I.'s hopes of breaking their five year losing streak. When the final whistle blew, R.P.I. had scored only once and the Panthers had run up a total of thirty points.

The following week marked the first game of the Vermont State Series for Middlebury. Judged as underdogs against the bigger and deeper cadet forces from Northfield, the Panthers put on their most exciting show of strength of the season, holding Norwich to a 0-0 tie. The game was complete with outstanding goal line stands by both teams. The second half saw neither team able to score and the clock ran out on an unsuccessful field goal attempt by Beams from the Middlebury forty yard line.

In the final game of the season Middlebury met the powerful Vermont Catamounts. Throughout the first half of the game Middlebury held the second place Yankee Conference team scoreless. Both teams came within striking distance of the goal line but neither could get into the end zone. During the opening minutes of the second half, Middlebury again held a Vermont drive, this time on the four yard line. Middlebury's attempt to punt out of trouble, however, resulted in a blocked kick and a U.V.M. score. Despite their determined efforts, the depth of the U.V.M. team, which provides a continuing supply of fresh substitutes, began to wear down the Panther sixty-minute "ironmen." The Catamounts scored again and the Vermont State Championship went to the University of Vermont.

Although the record books will contain a mediocre 3-3-1 season for the Panthers, those who were associated with the team will remember it with satisfaction. Special recognition was given to John Kingman, Francis Love, and co-captain Dave Giddings during the season for their outstanding individual performances as they were each elected to an ECAC team of the week.
SOCCER

The 1964 Panther soccer aggregation compiled an impressive 8-1 record, ending the season as number three in the thirty-team New England Inter-collegiate Soccer League. The team, rated first in New England on the Saylor system, lost only to Dartmouth. The season opened with a neat 2-1 victory over state rival Vermont. The Dartmouth affair came next, the Panthers on the short end of a 3-2 score. From then on it was all gravy as Midd squeaked by tough Springfield, 1-0, defeated MIT 2-1 and whalloped Union 7-2. The winning streak seemed to go on and on as Coach Joe Morrone's forces rolled over St. Michael's 2-1, R.P.I. 4-0, U.S. Coast Guard 3-0 and Norwich, 3-2.

The seven-game winning streak should see extension next year under the leadership of co-captains Bayard Russ and Roger Herrmann. The wins may come a bit harder, however, without the services of such offensive standouts as Tim Carey, Bruce Gunther and co-captain Dick Ide. The defensive forces, though strong, will miss the sparkling play of Mike Heaney, co-captain Jobe Stevens, and Jed Maker.

With the return of Gordi Eaton from the Olympics, and a strong group of juniors who proved their skiing prowess during their sophomore year, the 1965 ski team set off to better the excellent 1964 season.

The Middlebury team did not begin to flex its muscles jointly, however, until the beginning of the Winter Carnival Circuit at Dartmouth. During the first day of competition, junior Roger Buchika won the slalom with Gordi Eaton taking second place. In the cross-country event that followed, juniors John Brodhead, Dennis Donahue, and Bill Wells performed well enough to maintain the lead gained by the Alpine skiers. On the next day, Eaton captured the giant slalom with Buchika finishing a close second. With great pressure mounting, Tom Easton took second place in the jumping with Morse fifth and Swallow ninth. The Panthers lost to the Indians in this event, but picked up enough points, when added to their earlier lead to win the over-all competition by half a point.

The following week at Williams Carnival, Eaton and Buchika again took the first two spots in the giant slalom and with Tom Easton finishing sixth, Middlebury again seemed on the way to victory. Hopes were further strengthened as the cross-country squad led by John Brodhead gave the Panthers an upset victory in this event. In the slalom event Buchika took first, while Gordi Eaton finished third.
In the jumping, despite Easton's second place, the Panthers lost the event and most of their lead. After the final tabulations, however, a one tenth of a point lead enabled Middlebury to add another trophy to the Memorial Field House display.

Acting as hosts at the Middlebury Carnival, the Panthers jumped to an early lead. The Alpine team of Eaton, Buchika, and Easton performed brilliantly. With the loss of only one point in the cross-country, Middlebury looked like a winner going into the jumping event with more than an eight-point lead. Dartmouth's jumpers, however, put in a spectacular effort that was enough to overcome this lead and give Dartmouth the overall victory.

After this defeat on their own home grounds, the Panthers seemed more determined than ever as they entered the St. Lawrence Carnival. This meet, which also determined the EISA championships, was held at the Middlebury Bowl due to insufficient snow at St. Lawrence. Outstanding Alpine performances by Eaton, Buchika and Easton again put Middlebury in the lead. A strong Panther effort in the Nordic events held Dartmouth successes to minimum significance. When the final tally was announced, Coach Bobo Sheehan's boys had won the meet by more than eight points and had become the Eastern skiing champs.

Unfortunately, the team was not permitted to compete in the National Championships. One can be sure, nevertheless, that had they been allowed to go, Middlebury would have been well represented among the nation's best skiing teams.

1964-5 HOCKEY RESULTS

Won 14  Lost 8
The 1964-65 Middlebury hockey team came on strong to win its last five games and finish with an impressive 14-8 record. In the E.C.A.C. Division II the Panthers posted a 12-2 mark to capture divisional honors and rate as the number one small college team in the East.

The Panther’s twenty-two game schedule was highlighted by some fine hockey and many exciting games. In the opener the Blue skaters showed promise as they downed C.M.R. 7-5. Then, in the first of four overtime games, the Middlebury team lost a heartbreaker to Princeton 4-3. Following wins over Merrimac and Bowdoin and a loss to West Point, the Panthers traveled to Lake Placid for the Holiday Hockey Tournament. A great rally in the last two minutes produced a 4-3 overtime victory over Bowdoin, but the Blues fell to Norwich in the finals.

The pride and winning spirit which Coach Wendy Forbes developed in his squad came to a peak in the last five games. Williams, leading 2-0 at the end of the first period, fell to the Blues’ comeback 3-2 in overtime. After a 7-2 rout of Vermont, the Panthers came from behind to beat New Hampshire 5-4 in the final minute of the Carnival game. Then, in the big game with Norwich the Blues held on to win 4-3 and clinch their number one rating. The final 11-1 drubbing of Hamilton climaxed Middlebury’s best season in four years.
Much of the credit for the team’s 14-8 record must go to Coach Forbes, whose attitude and ability brought the skaters to the top of the Eastern small college standings. Co-captains Tim Carey and Larry Leahy also played a large part in the success of the team. Carey, with 16 goals and 15 assists for 31 points, led the team in scoring, while Leahy’s quiet determination and solid checking anchored the defense. Sophomore goaltender Peter Brown with a 3.6 goals per game average, rated as the number one goalie in the E.C.A.C. Division II. His calm work in the nets was a steadying influence on the team all year.

Up front, Carey teamed with hustling senior Bob Dorf and George Walker to form a well-knit first line. John Buffum skated with Peter Treska and Dick Hall on the high-scoring “red line.” Seniors Dave Jensen and Pat Wells and junior Davis Webbe formed a third line that did a creditable job.

The even distribution of the team scoring—five men had twenty points or more—testifies to the fact that this was a real team effort. The loss of high-scoring Wayne Halliwell at mid-season hurt, but did not dampen the squad’s determination. For the seniors, the five straight wins to close the season were a fine way to bow out. For the underclassmen, the team’s continual improvement plus the freshman sextet’s great 10-1 record should bode well for the future. Coach Forbes can look forward to next year with optimism.

The 1964-65 season was the year of "the shuffle" on Middlebury's basketball scene. Brand new varsity coach James G. (Jerry) Alaimo brought his shuffle offense, along with many other innovations, to Middlebury from Brown University.

Jerry's Panthers turned in a 5-15 slate, the best that Middlebury has managed in nearly ten years. Despite its poor start, the roundball team never lost its fight and somehow held on and endured the Union, Trinity, Wesleyan, and Hamilton nightmares and came back to scare MIT, Williams, Amherst, and Vermont, and to dump Norwich and RPI.

Leading the hoopsters was Captain Pete Karlson, who averaged over 16 points and 12 rebounds per game. Guards Dick Ide and Dale Smith kept Coach Alaimo's shuffle pattern running smoothly from their backcourt positions.

Basketball at Middlebury had a new look in '64-'65. The games were closer and the fans were more enthusiastic, not to mention more numerous, even if the record was about the same.

ACTIVITIES

Phi Beta Kappa—E. Carlton, C. Cassaday, E. Fink.

Election to these four honor societies at Middlebury is a recognition of both academic and extracurricular capacities which have been employed to their fullest, of the coming to be of potential scholars and campus leaders who excel in the ideals of leadership, scholarship and service. It is both a recognition and a challenge. Intellectual achievement is honored through the bestowal of a key and future scholarship is urged by the aims and ideals of the society. The Phi Beta Kappa key in particular carries with it an awareness of more to be done, more doors to be opened. As Emerson said, "the scholar is the man who must take up unto himself all the ability of the time . . ."

Student Life Committee—Mr. Hinman, J. Riker, M. Dupuis, Chaplain Scott, President Armstrong, H. Tolley, C. Burr, R. Coutts, P. Delfausse, V. Neely. MISSING: Dean Kelly, Dean Swift.

College is a multi-faced experience; aside from the social and intellectual aspects of the college life, there are numerous opportunities for active contribution to Middlebury... selfless service directed towards furthering the common aims of faculty, students and administration... four organizations: respected, integral parts of the community... BOG... brisk, well-organized introduction to college life, effective maintenance of the Student Union, continued planning and coordination throughout the year, integration of the Freshman into his new environment... SEPC... re-examination of educational policy pointing out areas in need of revision in order to maintain a stimulating and realistic academic pace... Student Life Committee... the formal, direct channeling of communication between the students and the administration... SA... the "serving of the students" through transmission of their suggestions and criticisms to the administration... all central organizations promoting and reflecting a concern for all the students and a respect for the college.

The Campus—since 1905 the student storehouse of Middlebury news... a reflector of the continually changing elements in college life: previews and reviews, statistics useful and otherwise, controversial editorials, Letter-to-the-Editor battles, and, for an added dash of spice, personalized advertising.
You want me to climb on to which branch?!!! . . . Who said the impossible cannot be done? He was a very wise man BUT he did not know the Kaleidoscope staff! . . . Why won't that boy have his picture taken? . . . Who says I can't fit twelve pictures on one page? . . . Know anyone who types two hundred words per minute? . . . deadlines to be made . . . a lot of work . . . but . . . the finished product brings smiles of joy and satisfaction to staff and student body . . . the KALEIDOSCOPE draws the many facets of life at Middlebury into focus, focus with a meaning and a memory.
Kaleidoscope—Editors up a Tree

FIRST ROW: N. Ofslager, S. Brown, G. Sluder, R. Watson.
SECOND ROW: S. LaForce.

Out on a Limb C. Thierfelder, editor.

International Relations Club—FIRST ROW: M. Saenz, S. Swinburne, C. Holmes, S. Weaver.
The foreign student at Middlebury finds his climate in the refreshing warmth of our spring days and the snow of our winters, his landscape in our mountains and streams and his ideas in the pool of universal thought created by the International Relations Club . . . Domestic and foreign students alike meet the best principles of democracy as they are brought into the college community through the organs of student government . . . And Middlebury Americans project into the community the awareness and understanding fostered by the college . . . Momma’s little helpers grow up and become . . . ballet and ballroom teachers, Christmas Santa Clauses and Halloween witches, Girl Scout and Brownie leaders, fashion models, salesgirls, waitresses . . . any and every facet of community help can be found in the yellow pages of Women’s Forum.
The French have a special way of doing things... so do the Spanish, German and Russian peoples of the world... the Middlebury language clubs want to find out what those respective ways are and communicate them to others... that's why they have picnics, excursions to Montreal, French bread and cheese, flamenco guitar concerts, dance programs, theatrical presentations, dramatic readings, lectures, conversation hours... discovery of communities beyond our own... discovery of a basic human nature underlying all especially at Christmas when the strains of carols in four languages are heard serenading the campus... discoveries celebrated by our language clubs with a certain zest and joie de vivre which means the same thing in any language.

The Chapel... a focal point for religious spirit at Middlebury... an optional home for those who practice God... the religious groups... a vital addition to campus life... debates, lectures, casual social get-togethers... a strengthening of the bond between the student and his God, his college and his fellow man.

Onward forever, old Middlebury, forever victory—well, at least onward forever! . . . and the cheerleaders yell a little louder and maybe the men out there fight a little harder . . . and behind all of this is the Men's Athletic Council . . . it keeps the whole thing going.
Strains of organ music and singing drifting through the open chapel windows in rehearsal for Sunday's service . . . chapel bells chiming at dusk daily . . . the Chapel itself, Middlebury's unity, for "the strength of the hills is His also." . . . these are all parts of our religion, lost too often perhaps, in the context of college life. To bring religious stimulus into campus life, as do these small daily components, is the aim of the Chapel Board and the Religion Conference . . . to bring in speakers like Dr. John Smith of the Philosophy Department of Yale; to send out students, like the group which teaches Sunday School at Brandon . . . to ask "does God exist" or merely "who is God?"

Mountain Club, governed by the members of Skyline, adds another dimension to life at Middlebury... a refreshing retreat from the academic... Freshman picnic, Woodsman’s Weekend, competition, overnights, hikes, dances... and... Carnival... a dazzling two days of skiing, snow sculptures, ice shows, Klondike Rush, the Ball and parties, parties, parties... waiting, wondering, whirling and winning.

Once you are over the initial shock of the tank suits, the Brown pool is quite an enjoyable place . . . even during co-ed open hours! There is always something going on behind those windows in the entry hall: two lifeguards playing with a beach ball . . . a faculty member in a full swan dive . . . a heated butterfly race . . . a robed guard teaching an eager four-year old how to hold his breath . . . a human wheel of revolving synchronized swimming club members . . . or simply the silent patterns of eddying water.

So what if you haven’t played basketball since high school! After all, “it is better to have played and lost than never to have played at all!” Well, if basketball is absolutely out we have other sports from which to choose . . . hockey? badminton? bowling? archery? You realize, of course, there are rewards in this for you and your team: we have the Rosevear and WRA awards, or you might even make an All-Midd team!

To acquaint Middlebury with the outside world and to make the world aware of Middlebury College . . . the Debaters, Young Republicans, Civil Rights Group and the Middlebury Conference function as lines of communication connecting the Green Mountains with all parts of New England, the West, the deep South, and even Red China. The year 1964 brought issues, means of semination and harvest: RESOLVED—that the federal government of the United States should establish a national work program to aid the unemployed; Goldwater-Miller vs. Johnson-Humphrey and Muriel, you old trooper; Fast for Freedom; Red China today in its new growing role—and we met them, with open arms and open minds.

Civil Rights Group—N. Bryant, M. Wilson, E. Weissman, president; V. Neely, M. Faulkner, D. Brown.

A hammer and nails . . . putting across the truth of a character . . . any effort has immediate results . . . an opportunity for self-expression . . . a special telephone to the world . . . the active pursuit of a creative art . . . an education in itself.

Through the uniting of voices and instruments into harmonious wholes, another phase of Middlebury’s kaleidoscopic existence is formed. . . .

the strains of choir music rising in the chapel. . . .

the orchestra with its chamber-group size and quality . . . and . . . at the sound of the first drum beat, everyone clears a path for the blue bundle of noise parading down the road to the football field. What it lacks in size, it compensates for in enthusiasm—its kickoff and touchdown fanfares, its halftime performances and its conventional support of the cheerleaders or its not-so-conventional band leaders.

Orchestra—FIRST ROW: Mr. Lewis Fink, Mr. Alan Carter, J. Pratt, C. Ogden, M. Dick, J. Gratiot, K. Leppeman, J. Rowe. SECOND ROW: L. Emmerich, J. Valby, R. Kelman, G. Voland, R. Lane.

Artistic, literary and vocal expressions find productive outlets... "This next tune is dedicated to Batt South, second floor"... and as the strains of "I'll get you in the end" drift over the radio and down the corridor, thirty girls blush and scream with embarrassment... thirty individuals feel they belong a little more than they did three minutes before... WRMC makes another contribution to the homogeneity of the campus community... a desired effect is achieved... at another spot on the campus a photograph is taken... it's a good one... not of headless or footless people or a close up of one's own thumb... a new technique is learned and the art extends beyond a record blaring over the radio transmitter or the clicking of a little red button... abstract extensions of the more serious side of academic growth... dance club... active and productive participation... Cinema Club offering provocative and meaningful films centered around a basic approach—historical this year... the goal of these organizations is fulfilled by each through its respective channels—the expression and appreciation of that creativity which each student at some time feels within.
